Performance tables

The DfE's published performance table data for both Key Stage 2 (Primary) and Key Stage 4 (High) for the 2024/25 academic year can be accessed online through the following link: Compare School Performance

Key Stage 2

Ealing's Key stage 2 data is currently provisional as of September 2025. This means that eligible recent arrivals to schools have not yet been removed. The proportion of primary school pupils achieving the expected standard or above in Reading, Writing and Maths was 66.4% in Ealing in 2024/25. This emerging figure is down nearly 3.5% on 2023/24 but remains well ahead of national performance.

GCSE and equivalent (Key Stage 4)

The average progress 8 score for Ealing pupils in 2023/24 was 0.56 with an average attainment 8 score of 52.0. The proportion of pupils achieving GCSE grades 5 and above (or equivalent qualifications) in English and Maths was 58%.

These figures represent another very strong year for Ealing. As a borough, we remain one of the top local authorities in not just London but England as a whole.

The recent GCSE & A-Level results day headlines for 2024/25 suggest another good year for Ealing. Results will be published on this page when formalised and released by the DfE.

Post-16

Ealing's KS5 average point score (APS) per academic entry (predominantly A levels) was 36.1 in 2023/24 which represented almost no change on 2022/23. The recent trend in Ealing mirrors what we observe at the national level.

Ealing's APS in 2023/24 was 32.9 for applied entries, this figure was above both the London and national average.
