

Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) for Young People with Special Educational Needs

Online short course provided by the UCL Centre for Inclusive Education

To comply with new regulations on Relationships and Sex Education, DfE guidance states that “schools should start teaching the new content no later than the start of Summer term 2021”. This new online course charts a pathway from understanding the how the new legislation impacts young people with SEN to creating a sustainable action plan for your setting.

Course structure and content

The course consists of four live sessions and pre-recorded presentations and additional activities to complete before and after the live sessions.

Live Session 1

28/09/21, 4-6pm
RSE legislation and leading evidence informed improvement

Live Session 2

12/10/21, 4-5.30pm
Working in partnerships and establishing a case for change

Live Session 3

19/10/21, 4-5.30pm
Teaching and assessment: supporting an implementation plan

Live Session 4

30/11/21, 4-5.30pm
Review project: Securing sustainable next steps

Cost and Contact

£395

Delegates receive a certificate of attendance to add to their CPD portfolio.

Please email inclusive.education@ucl.ac.uk to register your interest.